ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
SUPERINTENDENT OF INSTRUCTION

ST. LOUIS, OCTOBER 8, 1918.

To the Board of Education of the City of St. Louis:

GENTLEMEN: The following statistical data on matters pertaining to the Department of Instruction for the year 1917-1918 are respectfully submitted in advance of the complete report of the department.

Respectfully,

JOHN W. WITHERS,
Superintendent of Instruction.

I. DEFINITION AND EXPLANATION OF TERMS.

The following are given as definitions and explanations of terms used in St. Louis reports:

Registration. The number of different children who entered the public schools during the year, counting each child but once. It includes all children enrolled at the end of the school year plus all those who have withdrawn during the year.

Enrollment. The term "Enrollment" is applied to the number of pupils in attendance on any day plus the number of those absent on that day. It includes all pupils who have not severed their connection with the schools by permanent "withdrawal" or by transfer to another public school. Temporary absence of any number of days does not drop a pupil from the enrollment.

Withdrawals. Pupils who withdraw permanently from school are termed "withdrawals." This may mean pupils who move away from St. Louis, go to work, or who for other reasons are compelled to leave school.

Attendance per Teacher. In computing this figure the number of teachers used is found as follows: Principals are not counted; each regular room teacher is counted as one; each director of an A. M. or P. M. kindergarten is counted as one and each paid assistant as one teacher; in the high schools and the Harris Teachers College all teachers giving but part time to regular instruction in those schools are counted as fractional teachers.

Ages. The age of the pupil reported in the age-grade tables is the age on the last birthday before the close of schools in June.

II. TEACHERS AND SUPERVISORS.

III. PUPILS.

TABLE 1—SCHOOL POPULATION, 1917-18.

PERSONS 6-20 YEARS OF AGE.

The school census is taken every five years, and the enumeration of the last census taken is adopted by the Board for the intervening five years.

The population of St. Louis in 1900 was 575,238 and for 1910, 687,029, according to the U. S. Census. The estimated population for 1918 is 776,461.*

School Census 1914	White	Colored	Total
1	2	3	4
Male	75,064	3,372	78,436
Female	76,988	3,861	80,849
Total	152,052	7,233	159,285

*This figure is based upon the method used by the U. S. Census Bureau, eight-tenths of the increase in the years 1900 to 1910 being added to the population of 1910 to make the estimated population for 1918.

*Decrease.

Apparent decrease only. Previous to this year pupils entering the high schools from the district schools in January were counted as new pupils and were therefore counted twice. Beginning with 1906-07 they are counted as received by transfer and are counted in the registration but once.

†Extension of city limits through the adoption of a new charter.

‡Based on average school membership or "number belonging."

The average size of classes pursuing a given subject may be found by dividing the "number of pupils" by "number of classes," viz., the average total number of pupils at the Franklin instructed in Nature Study daily was 92; number of classes, 4; average size of classes coming under the instruction of the teacher in Nature Study, 23.

The number of classes here refers to the number of different classes sent to a given teacher during the daily session.

Four classes in any subject means that each of the four studied that subject one-fourth of the daily session, viz., forty minutes; two classes means that each class remained at work at one subject for two periods, or eighty minutes; in the case of three classes, the teacher gave one class eighty minutes and each of the others forty minutes.
